Background:

Chris developed an interest in guitar while attending high school. He participated in a guitar-oriented musical independent study with several other musicians, giving him experience with collaboration and furthering his musical prowess. Today, Chris enjoys many styles of music – including rock n’ roll, metal, electronic, classic, and some jazz and blues. His experiences come from practicing privately, to collaborating with other musicians, to stage performance.

Strengths:

- Very patient with beginning students
- Caters to individual needs of respective students
- Enjoys teaching various styles
- Continues to further his own guitar skills, keeping the challenges of learning fresh in his mind
- Utilizes a very flexible teaching method
